ETF shares are not individually redeemable. Investors buy and sell shares on a secondary market. Only market makers or "authorized participants" may trade directly with the ETF, typically in blocks of 50,000 shares. ETFs are subject to market risk or the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to factors that affect the overall performance of the financial markets, interest-rate risk, which arises when the absolute level of interest rates fluctuate, credit risk, the risk of loss of principal or loss of a financial reward stemming from a borrower's failure to repay a loan or otherwise meet a contractual obligation and potential loss of the principal amount invested.

Shares of ETF investments and have risks similar to stocks. There are risks involved with investing in ETFs, including the loss of your investment. Emerging market investments involve risk of capital loss from unfavorable fluctuation in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles, from economic or political instability in other nations or increased volatility, and lower trading volume. The value of an investment denominated in a foreign currency could change significantly as foreign currencies strengthen or weaken relative to the U.S. dollar. Some funds are non-diversified and, as a result, may have greater volatility than diversified funds. Some funds will concentrate investment in issuers of one or more particular industries to the same extent that the underlying index is so concentrated. Concentration risk results from maintaining exposure to issuers conducting business in a specific industry.

Effective September 1, 2016, Emerging Global Advisors, LLC was acquired by Columbia Management Investment Advisers, LLC (CMIA). In connection with the acquisition, CMIA is the investment manager to EGShares Funds as of that date. On October 19, 2016, the EGShares Funds were renamed as Columbia Funds. The Funds are distributed by ALPS Distributors, Inc., which is not affiliated with CMIA.
